

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE & HOW IT RELATES TO THE JEWISH COMMUNITY

Dr. Amy Weintraub, Speaker

Sunday, October 28, 2018
10:00 AM

Dr Amy Weintraub was born in Albany but now resides on Manhattan's Upper West Side where she and her husband are active members of their Reconstructionist congregation. They maintain a house in Albany and attend services at Temple Beth Emeth which they consider their "country" synagogue when in town. Dr. Weintraub holds a Master's degree from Brown and a Ph.D. from Columbia University. For over 25 years she directed the Center for Victim Support at Harlem Hospital. In addition, she teaches a Master's level course on Domestic Violence, Rape and Sexual Assault at Mercy College in Westchester. Dr. Weintraub has also lectured to nurses, doctors and law enforcement officials. Dr. Weintraub will be discussing domestic violence in general as well as how it specifically relates to the Jewish community. She welcomes the opportunity to bring her insights to the Lunch and Learn Program at Beth Emeth and looks forward to a lively and interactive discussion of this most important and painful topic.

This program is free & open to the community. Questions? Contact Deb Sokoler – dsokoler@bethemethalbany.org or 518 436-9761 x230

Program is Sponsored by the Sisterhood of Congregation Beth Emeth